November 20, 2006

I would like to take the occasion to recommend Harvey Davis as a candidate for the Director of Infrastructure Management position with Fulton County Schools. As the Director of Information Technology for Atlanta Life Financial Group, Harvey was responsible for all enterprise technology functions, including network infrastructure, system development, and technical and telecommunications services.

Harvey led the successful Y2K compliance effort and the conversion from a third party policy administration system to an in-house system. He implemented wide area network services to support the district offices and later orchestrated the technical design and construction of a state-of-the-art data center with a high-availability network in 2003.

Harvey is a focused team player who interacted well with senior management and provided technology solutions to enable the business to achieve its objectives. His contribution to Atlanta Life's technology infrastructure will be longstanding.

Sincerely,

Geoffrey Nnadi, CPA
